

Many of our members are having problems with their user name and password—or they have too many and are not sure which one to use. So, here is a repeat of a previous article to help you through this situation.

Please note that your “Members Only” password is good for one year due to security reasons. So after a year, you will receive an e-mail stating that your password has expired. Go to the OAKE Web site and click on the Members Only area of the toolbar. A drop-down menu appears, click on Existing Member Password. Follow the directions to sign up for a new password. You cannot ask for the same user name, however, you can still use your favorite password once you have logged in using the password that comes in the e-mail. Once you are in the Member’s Only section, click on Change Password. Then you can change back to your old password. It sounds confusing, but it really is quite easy.

If you would like to use the same user name contact Joan at the National Office prior to renewing and have all your user names cleared. Then you can start the process again.

If you have any trouble please contact Joan at the National Office (oakeoffice@oake.org).
